

Dioceses and institutions utilize STEP courses for formation of many different groups: catechists, Catholic school teachers, deacon aspirants and candidates, and anyone interested in learning more about the Catholic faith.

STEP partners with many different dioceses, of all sizes, who do not have a local institution of higher education to utilize in its educational mission. STEP also partners with dioceses of large geographic size for whom gathering the faithful locally is difficult due time restraints and distance required to gather. Many small Catholic colleges and universities have closed in recent years, STEP courses fill a concrete need.
